Low emissions zone (emissions zone permit)

Hannover is not only an environmentally aware trade fair city. Since 1 January 2008 it has a low emissions zone. Like similar schemes in Berlin and Cologne, the low emissions zone is designed to bring about reduced particulate emissions in the city centre. The zone comprises large parts of the city centre within the expressway ring road and is demarcated by special “no entry” signs. Only vehicles displaying an emissions sticker or exempted vehicles may be driven in the low emissions zone.

For further information about Hannover’s low emissions zone, please visit the TÜV NORD website at www.tuev-nord.de/39477.asp, where you can also order an emissions sticker.

Traffic management

Once in the vicinity of Hannover, visitors travelling by car will be guided to the Exhibition Grounds via autobahn and the designated “MesseschneUweg” (trade fair expressway). Traffic flows are managed by a centralized, electronically controlled routing system that is the only one of its kind in Germany. It embraces:

- Traffic control systems on the autobahns A2 and A7
- Additional dynamic route guidance at autobahn junctions
- The traffic routing system on the trade fair expressway
- The parking guidance system on the trade fair ring road

Information displayed by these road signs and signals is based on traffic data that is generated and calculated electronically. This means that traffic jams and other hold-ups are identified immediately, allowing the best routes to and from the Exhibition Grounds to be displayed at all times.
